SEED SOWN UPON GOOD GROUND

PICTURE OF JAMES PUGH UNDER THE GALLOWS AT HILLSBORO.

This Picture and His Declaration and Prophecy Will be on One Tablet—Shall the Monument go Uncrowned With the Historic Frontiersman?

To the Editor of The Telegram:

Through the liberality of our excellent and progressive photographer, Mr. B. G. White, I am enabled to place in your office a picture of the Colonial column about to be erected.

This is a photograph of the original drawing by Mr. Woodroffe of the Mt. Airy Granite Company.

Mr. G. R. Rendall, perhaps the State's most accomplished artist, kindly gives me a sketch of James Pugh under the gallows at Hillsboro, June 19th, 1771, and Mrs. Morehead gives ten others.

The brave old Regulator with rope around his neck, hands bound behind him and standing upon the head of a barrel and about to be hanged is addressing the British Governor, his tool Fanning, and others. Pugh tells Tryon to his face that his own blood (Pugh's) and that of his five compatriots "will be as good seed in good ground that will soon produce one hundred fold."

Excepting their brave comrades who had fallen a month before on the field of Alamance these were the first six offerings upon the altar of American liberty. The Declaration of Independence a few years later and a seven years war were the proof and fearful realization of the correctness of his prophecy.

This drawing of Mr. Rendall's is taken from a "nubbing," by the Messrs. Bureau Brothers of Philadelphia, of one of the four handsome bronze tablets that will grace the monument. No other colony than North Carolina can truthfully claim so honorably a record, I believe, as these four tablets will proclaim.

The figure of Washington crowning the shaft is merely a clipping from a magazine of equal height with that with which it is hoped permanently to crown the shaft when completed—a frontiersman with his buck rifle, knife, and moccasins and clad in his home made hunting shirt.

Without this the monument will lose much of its beauty as it is designed and admirably proportioned for it—the granite—20 feet in height—and the four bronze tablets—2 feet by 18—one in course of construction. Cash on hand and good subscriptions yet to be paid in will enable me to pay for these upon their arrival. But whether this noble memorial of a notable period shall remain uncrowned and unfinished depends upon the Aldermen or private citizens of Greensboro.

Your truly,
JOS. M. MOREHEAD,
Vice Pres. G. B. G. Co.

The Perry Piano Recital.

Those who attended the Perry piano recital at the Graded School last night were more than pleased. What the audience lacked in numbers was fully made up in enthusiasm and appreciation.

Mr. Perry is certainly a wonder at the piano and his clear and beautifully sympathetic interpretation of each number in a descriptive lecture before he played it, added immensely to an understanding of his masterly rendering.

The concert grand Knabe piano used by Mr. Perry in all his concerts is a truly magnificent instrument.

It may be interesting to know that Mr. Perry was a pupil of Liszt, whom he pronounces the most brilliant man the world has ever known. Another interesting fact is, that Mr. Perry has given more piano recitals than any other pianist the world has ever known.

His remarks to the Euterpe Club must have been very encouraging to them in their efforts to encourage good music.

Convict Beaten to Death.

Winston-Salem, N. C., March 8.—The taking of evidence before the coroner's jury in the case of Rand Hart, a young white convict, who died at one of the county camps Tuesday night, was not concluded until this afternoon.

The testimony given by all the witnesses showed that Hart was brutally beaten on Tuesday with switches and a raw hide by Pink Fulton, one of the guards. The county physician, who made the post mortem after the body was taken up yesterday, testified that Rand's body was terribly lacerated and bruised, and that the wounds were sufficient to produce death. The jury returned a verdict charging Fulton with being responsible for the death (it being responsible for the death of Hart).

The guard was discharged Wednesday night. Papers were issued today for his arrest, but the officers have not found him. His father is Rev. Henry Fulton, who attended the hearing today.

Drunk on the Track.

A white man was found laying on the railroad track near Summit avenue this afternoon in an utterly drunken condition. His head was resting on one of the rails. A passer-by pulled him off the track and reported him to Chief Scott, who put him up to answer for a drunk and down. A freight train came along pretty soon afterwards, and it was apparent that the fellow had narrowly escaped being converted into sausage meat.

Prof. Craven to be Chancellor.

At the session of the Council of the Knights of Kadosh held in the hall over Grissom & Fordham's drug store last night, Prof. H. B. Craven, of the Greensboro Female College, was elected Chancellor in the place of Rev. W. L. Grissom, who for some time has been unable to attend by reason of continued sickness.

Rummage Sales.

The "fad" of the times! First instituted by the Red Cross Society to raise funds for suffering humanity, then taken up by every charitable organization and church that needed help to carry on its work of good. Now Greensboro falls into line as the ladies of St. Barnabas church propose holding one just after Easter.

Hobson at Salisbury.

Salisbury Truth-Index.

Lieutenant Richmond Pearson Hobson, a nephew of Capt. Chas. Price, and a cousin of Mrs. William Blackmer and many other prominent North Carolinians, is in Salisbury. He came in last night on No. 35, which was delayed over an hour, and doesn't appear to have been sick. He intends to remain in Salisbury until tomorrow, when he will go to Statesville and spend from then until Tuesday. He will then return to Salisbury.

Our people know the Lieutenant well—he has been here a number of times. But he never comes so often that they are not all the prouder to have him. Mr. Hobson will divide his time among his relatives.

NOTE—Since writing the above we have come to think the Lieutenant has become a Captain, having been promoted to that rank by the government.

Mrs. M. K. Bowles has sold her residence on Morehead avenue to Mr. W. A. Watson, and it is now occupied by the family of the late Thos. P. North, of High Point. Mrs. Bowles has bought a lot west of the Normal College and will shortly begin the erection of a new dwelling there.

Mr. R. B. Hines went to Ramseur this afternoon. He will organize a council of the Knights of Kadosh there.

Mr. D. I. West, of Reidsville, spent the forenoon in the city with his brother, Mr. I. F. West, and left on the afternoon train for More county.

NO PRESENT LABOR LEGISLATION

THE COMMITTEE REPORTS ALL BILLS UNFAVORABLY.

The Report, With the Agreement of the Mill Men Spread on the Journal—Permanent Roll of Voters Will be Made up. Special Dispatch to The Telegram.

Raleigh, March 9.—The House passed the bill providing for the permanent registration of the persons entitled to vote under section six of the amended constitution.

Ebbs, Republican, protested, saying that the constitutional amendment was unconstitutional.

He was replied to warmly by Craig, Smith and Allen.

The vote was ayes 45, noes 16. Dean was the only Republican voting aye.

All bills regulating factory labor were reported unfavorably and the agreement of the cotton mills as published today accepted and ordered spread on the journal.

The committee to investigate the blind institution reported, saying that the charges made were not malicious or frivolous, but that the institution was well managed on the whole.

The Senate passed the bill for a permanent registration of voters.

REPORT ON LABOR LEGISLATION.

The House judiciary committee yesterday evening submitted the following report:

"This committee having had under consideration various bills introduced in the House, having for their purpose the regulation of child labor in cotton mills, beg leave to report that they have carefully considered the subject of child labor in mills. The evil of child labor has been strongly impressed upon the committee; in fact every person who appeared before the committee joined in condemning the employment of young children in cotton mills and expressed the determination to cooperate in the effort to remove that evil. It further appeared that this evil was being rapidly diminished in the State; that comparatively few children under 12 years of age work in cotton mills; unless there is some particular necessity, such as being children of widows or afflicted parents who are dependent upon their labor for support. Mill owners are especially desirous of remedying the evil, and limiting it to cases of necessity. The committee was gratified at the spirit shown by the mill owners in providing educational facilities and churches and at the friendly relation shown to exist generally between owners and employees.

The mill owners presented to the committee an agreement signed by a very large majority of the mills measured by either numbers or capacity. After full consideration of all bills, and of the various arguments presented and of the petition aforesaid, the committee was of the opinion that perhaps that evil could be removed, without legislative action, and it is the earnest hope of the committee that mill owners who have not entered into this agreement shall speedily do so, in which case the evil will have been remedied by voluntary action of persons interested.

"The committee recommends that this report, together with a copy of the agreement aforesaid, be spread upon the journals of this House, and that the original be filed with the records of the House.

"The committee further recommends that labor bills be indefinitely postponed in order to give mill owners who have not signed one more opportunity to do so before legislation is enacted.

"It was stated by representatives of the mills that within six months all mills which have not signed will do so, and that there will be complete adjustment without legislative action."

The city is now renumbering the buildings, following the old rule of allowing twenty-five feet for a number in business houses, and thirty-five feet in resident sections. Any one whose house has not been numbered should let the city clerk know it.

Threatens Violence.

THE WORK OF THE ALDERMEN.

REFUSE TO GRANT LICENSE FOR BAR AT 330 SOUTH ELM.

Petition of People in that Section Presented by Major Stedman—Other Actions of More or Less Interest.

Messrs. Elam, Merrimon, and Scott were the only members of the Board of Aldermen absent from the meeting last night.

Maj. Chas. E. Stedman presented a petition against granting license to retail liquor at 330 S. Elm street, signed by business men in that locality. The application for license had been filed by King & Oakley, and was refused. It was the sense of the Board that license should not be granted for that stand.

Dr. J. E. Wyche asked for an establishment of the building and grade lines on West Gaston. The city engineer was instructed to make the survey.

Mr. Jas. W. Forbis appeared and asked that the city grant a rebate on the stall rent of W. J. Williams, in consideration of the fact that the recently erected firemen's hall just south of the market cuts light off from his stall, and thereby damages the value of the stand. The request was refused.

J. H. West asked that he be allowed to move his structure from its present position on South Elm street to Mrs. Watlington's lot lower down. The request was referred to the fireman's committee with power to act.

A communication was received from Geo. W. Pritchett regarding the purchase of fire hose, in which he claimed that he had not been properly treated. Mr. Denny offered the following resolution relating thereto:

"Resolved, That after a full report of the purchasing committee, relative to the purchase of hose, we heartily endorse the action of the committee." The resolution was adopted.

Alderman Denny offered the following. First, that it should be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, to throw or place any paper, rags, peelings, rinds, or trash on any street, sidewalk or other public places of the city. Second, any person violating this ordinance shall pay a fine of ten dollars. Passed.

The street committee was ordered to procure a certain grade of crushed stone from the county works to be used as the street committee desires.

Hunter moved that the chairman of the water committee ask the receiver of the Water Company to have hydrants now situated in the middle of the sidewalk move to their proper places on the curbing.

Joyner moved that the light people be ordered to put a light on Summit avenue beyond the crossing.

The application of J. A. Miller to sell liquors in the stand now occupied by E. G. Newcomb was postponed till next meeting.

Henry R. Culp filed application for license to run bar in the Kallum building on South Elm street, the place now occupied by the Athenian Candy Company, 340 South Elm.

MRS. BOTHA NEGOTIATED PEACE

WIFE OF THE BOER GENERAL HELPED TO AN UNDERSTANDING.

All the Boer Leaders Except Dewet and Steyn are Ready to Lay Down Arms. Conduct of the South Africans of Cape Colony Disappointed the Leaders. By Wire to The Telegram:

London, March 9.—According to authoritative information the understanding between Kitchener and Gen. Botha is sufficiently advanced to warrant the statement that the Boers will surrender on or about March 11. All the Boer leaders except Dewet and Steyn are declared to be in favor of laying down their arms, so the terms discussed may be said to have been practically agreed upon by both sides. Mrs. Botha is credited with having practically conducted the negotiations. LAST HOPE GONE SAYS LEYD.

Paris, March 9.—Mr. Leyd, the Boer agent, says that the Boers would be willing to consider terms of peace if addressed to them as free citizens, provided the terms would allow them to live in enjoyment of dependence under the protection of England. He admits the Boers have been disappointed in the conduct of Afrikaners of Cape Colony, who have not given Dewet the assistance expected of them in the invasion of British territory, and it leaves to be inferred that the Afrikaners attitude deprived the Boers of the last hope of success, leaving them without any prospect of victory, and opening the way to peace negotiations. "But" he added, "South Africa will never be permanently British."

SUGAR GOES DOWN.

The Three Big Concerns Have Dropped the Price to 5 1-4.

By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, March 9.—The American Sugar Refining Company and Arbuckle Bros. today reduced the price of refined sugar 25 points, or 25 cents per hundred pound, and the National refining Company, which yesterday made a ten per cent. reduction, today made a further reduction of 15 points, which brings about a uniform price 5 1/4 cents per pound for the refined product. No surprise is manifested in trade on the announcement of the reduction.

ISOM WAS NOT TO BE DOWNED.

"Speaking of being morally certain of a thing, and yet not being able to tell why you know it," said a lawyer yesterday, I recollect a case which illustrate the point exactly. An old darky named Isom was arraigned for having stolen a chicken, when the following conversation ensued:

"Well now Isam" said the lawyer, "you say tha. when you found your chicken Sambo had him."

"Yesser."

And his tail and his wings and his gills and his comb were all cut off."

"Yes ser boss."

"Well, now tell his honor and the jury how you could tell it was your chicken, if his tail and his wings and his gills and his comb were cut off."

"Well, you see boss, I knowed him the very minnit I heard him crow."

"Now, Isam tell His Honor and the jury what peculiarity there is in that chicken's voice which enables you to recognize it when you hear it."

And the lawyer leaned back thingling he had puzzled Isam beyond reply, but not so, for Isam was too sharp for him.

"I dunno whatcher talkin bout boss and dunno's I ken low what you means, but 'spose you cut off yo mustache and yo' beard and cut off yo' hair, ain't yo' wife gwine ter know you voice when you goes home?"

The lawyer could not see the argument, but the court understood and Isam won his case.

The existing family relations among some of the colored population sometimes discovered in the court room are amusing. There are often brought out in very unexpected ways. A lawyer may ask a witness if he beats his wife, and, quite unexpectedly find that he does. The other day a witness was being cross examined.

"Did you beat your wife?" asked the lawyer.

"No sir, boss, I gis smacked her kationally, same as other genermen does."

It also happens that evidence is brought out which shows that marriage is not a lost custom. "How many times have you been married?" was asked a witness by the counsel.

"Fo times, boss on'y fo' times."

It is a well known fact that among the Ku Klux there were certain signals of distress made by passing the hands in particular motions over the body. In case a brother was in such dire distress as to be unable to give the sign he was to shout "Shiloh," and as the members were pledged to risk each other's lives to save a brother from physical harm, it was always necessary to answer this.

Yesterday several men were talking about the old signs, when a story was told which brought down the house. It occurred some years ago in this city. A certain well known character of the county was in town and got beastly drunk. The policemen got him and started to the lock up. Either they held his hand or he was too drunk to use them. He seemed to think that distressing times had come and in his drunken condition he imagined that it was the former day of the Ku Klux. The people in the vicinity were startled to hear him roar out at the top of his voice "Shiloh! Shiloh!"

A Song to the Sunshine.

Here's a song for the sunshine—and let it fall free!
Let it ripple on rivers and light the broad sea!

For it whispers to meadows where blossoms shall be—
Here's a song to the sunshine my dearie!

Here's a song to the sunshine! We need it along

The desolate ways where the lilies would through;

Life's just half a sigh—but the sunshine's a song;

Here's a song to the sunshine my dearie!

Here's a song the the sunshine!—the hill and the plain,

Smile sweet where the green turf is rimmed of the rain;

Here's a song to the sunshine—the light's out again!

Here's a song to the sunshine, my dearie!

[CONDUCTED BY THE LOCAL UNION.]

The origin of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union reads like a romance. In 1873, Dr. Dio Lewis, of Boston, stopped in the town of Hillsboro, Ohio, to deliver a temperance address. An enthusiastic audience listened with breathless attention as he told of his childhood days saddened by a drunken father; and of the desperation which impelled the people of his town to go to the saloons and by prayers and entreaties prevail upon the saloon keepers to cease their nefarious traffic. At the close of the lecture he asked how many were present who would join in a similar crusade against the saloons in Hillsboro. Fifty women arose and as many men. But who was to be their leader? This was a question. The name of Mrs. Eliza Thompson was suggested. She was not present, and so the meeting adjourned to assemble the next morning to discuss further plans. Mrs. Thompson's son and daughter went home that evening full of enthusiasm. "Oh, mother!" exclaimed the son "they want you to lead a crusade against the saloons tomorrow! Judge Thompson who was dozing upon the couch aroused and said: "You know your mother isn't going to engage in any such tomfoolery." "Well," said his wife "you men have been trying some time to abolish the saloons and haven't yet succeeded, perhaps it is time for the women to do something."

Next morning after breakfast the son and daughter reminded their mother of the meeting at the church. Mrs. Thompson left undecided as to her duty. "Children" said the Judge "you know where mother always settles her perplexities. Leave her with this (laying his hand on her Bible) and it will be settled right." The woman went to her room and prayed earnestly for guidance. Ere long her daughter, Mary, rapped on the door and entered with beaming countenance. "I have it mother," she exclaimed, and together they read the 146 Psalm which indeed seemed the solution. Confident of victory together mother and daughter went to the church where an anxious company awaited them. Mrs. Thompson was unanimously elected leader; but she scarcely knew how to proceed. Finally noting her embarrassment the minister said "Brethren, I believe the women could manage this better were we to retire." So the men quietly filed out of the building. Fresh courage now came to Mrs. Thompson. She arose and gave an account of the startling announcement of her children the evening before; her sleepless night; and the events of the morning. A good sister was asked to lead in prayer. They arose from their knees and making ranks, Mrs. Thompson, the shortest in front, they marched out of the church to the music of the grand old hymn.

"Give to the winds thy fears
Hope and be undismayed
God hears thy prayers and counts thy tears.
God shall lift up thy head."

A THOUSAND TONGUES.

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard st., Philadelphia, Pa. when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"it soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the Universe." So will every one who tries Dr. King's New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50c. and $1. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

Made Her Beautiful

Every Lady in the Land Can Now Have a Beautiful Skin.

A TRIAL BOX FREE.

Every lady who sends her name and address will receive by mail free a trial package of a celebrated beauty's remedies for beautifying the complexion. It is not a face powder, cream, cosmetic or bleach, contains no oil, grease, paste or chemicals and is absolutely the only successful beauty maker known.

Fannie B. Ralston, 628 Lexington Ave., New York, Ky., sister of the famous Kentucky Beauty Helen Ralston, who also used these beautifiers, says:—"When I began using Mme. Ribault's complexion beautifiers I did not think it possible to clear my skin, my face was in a horrible condition literally covered with red spots, pimples, blackheads, moth patches and freckles. And whenever the weather changed eczema, chaps and salt rheum added to my misery. I suffered a thousand deaths, and when I sent for a trial of Mme. Ribault's beautifiers just as I had done before time and again with other advertised remedies, I did not expect any results, imagine my surprise when the next day all redness and soreness were gone. At the end of a week my skin began to clear, the freckles and moth patches disappeared and the eczema and salt rheum were completely cured. I improved so wonderfully that my friends did not recognize me, so quickly had the change taken place. My skin is now perfectly lovely, and there is not a blemish or wrinkle anywhere.

I hope all ladies will at least try these marvelous beautifiers.

Do not delay but write immediately. The treatment is harmless, a natural beauty maker and will permanently remove all tan, freckles, moth patches, pimples, blackheads, flesh worms, sunburn, chaps, roughness and any and all skin imperfections no matter what they may be.

Write to-day without fail and the free treatment will be mailed prepaid with full directions and all particulars absolutely free. Address, MME. M. RIBAULT, 3388 Elsa Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

SATURDAY, MARCH 9

Elsewhere appears an article from Major Morehead relative to the Colonial Monument. He states that enough money has been raised to erect the monument without the proposed statute to crown it, and with the four handsome bronze tablets. The people of Greensboro should never for one moment think of allowing this monument to go up without this figure upon it—the historic and picturesque frontiersman, the private soldiers who not only began the war but fought it through. This will by far be the most unique monument in this section of the country, and so far as our knowledge goes, anywhere in America. The credit that it will give Greensboro cannot be estimated, and again we say that it should not be allowed to go uncompleted. This town owes to Major Morehead and to Judge Schenk and the others who have labored long, laboriously and absolutely without compensation except that which comes from consciousness of having done a great work, the moderate support which they occasionally ask in the cause which benefits and honors all. Major Morehead has undertaken to erect this monument, and has secured a greater part of the money outside of Greensboro, and it should not be said that this city failed to do its duty in securing the remainder.

A NEFARIOUS BUSINESS.

One day last week The Telegram published a clipping regarding the system in vogue in Anderson county, South Carolina by which large land owners practically enslaved at their will large numbers of negroes, and forced them to work at the will of the overseer and actually under his lash. Judge Benet ordered the grand jury of the county to proceed with a most rigid examination into the business, and they have just made a report of their findings. A press dispatch says that the "pre-committee, which visited the convict committee, which visited the convict stockade camps in Anderson county and found confined therein negroes guilty of any felony, but undergoing a term of servitude under voluntary contracts which they had signed in partial ignorance. The charge of false imprisonment was made against J. S. Fowler, P. B. Allen and W. Q. Hammond, three of the largest planters and the most influential men in Anderson county. The grand jury declared that these men, who employ convicts from the State, were also keeping confined in their stockades negroes who for some petty cause had been sent there for breach of contract, although convicted before no officer of the law. The presentment of the grand jury will put an end to this practice and it is conducted in no other county in the State. It has been known in Anderson county for a long time that such a system was being carried on, and the people of that county are glad that it has been done away with. No prosecutions have yet been made, but the solicitor, Mr. J. E. Boggs, will hand out indictments for the June term of court."

The discoveries of this work reveal a state of torpidity undreamed of in this part of the country. How it could have been carried on without discovery is inexplicable except upon the ground that the parties practicing it were of such influence as to be able to prevent any investigation. About twenty persons in all have been found to be guilty of the practice. "Judge Benet declared that the presentment brought pitiful details to light. It told of illegal arrests and imprisonment, of cruel whippings; of kidnapping negroes from other counties, and even from Georgia; of fear to give testimony, refusal to testify, and most pitiful of all, of poor negroes professing to be satisfied and contented. Concluding, he said that Anderson county would thank the grand jury of having relieved her of this shameful burden and freed her good name from the stigma that a few of her misguided citizens had placed upon it."

It is to be hoped that the stigma has not only been removed but that the guilty parties may be punished.

Concluding a very fulsome editorial on ex-Senator Butler in which great admiration is expressed for that individual, The Graham Tribune, a Republican paper, says that "we are for Marion Butler for District Attorney, Governor, Senator or anything he wants. We love the man for the enemies he has made." Among those enemies which he has at one time or the other made was Senator Pritchard, whom Mr. Butler tried so hard to defeat, and who publicly cursed Congressman Shuford for standing up to Butler in his treachery.

The readers who favor the editorial columns of The Telegram with their attention of course noticed yesterday that in speaking of the defeat of the River and Harbor bill, the name of Senator Clarke, who was not in the Senate, was used instead of Senator Carter as the man who talked the bill to death. It might be interesting to note while on this subject that in the telegraphic news yesterday it was seen that Senator Carter had been appointed to a $5,000 position in connection with the St. Louis exposition.

For our part we confess a disappointment at the action of the committee regarding labor laws.

NORTH CAROLINA
BACKWOODS TALES

Sara Lindsay Coleman in Chicago Tribune.

The mountaineer walked by the girl's side in moody silence.

"Laduskie," he said at length, "the people in the settlement air a-saying thet ye air in love with the stranger thet boards with ye. They air a-wonderin' what ye'll do when he leaves. He don't keer nothin' fer ye—with his fine city ways."

The girl said nothing, but stood white and rigid. Did she love him? Was that what had glorified the summer? She wanted to think—to be rid of the mountaineer.

"Tell the people for me"—the scorn in her voice, the contempt in her face stung him—"that I air capable o' taking keer o' myself." She walked swiftly away.

The artist was standing on the porch as she came up the steps.

"The picture is finished," he said. He led the way to his room. He watched her intently as she stood before the painting—the first she had ever seen.

"What do you think of yourself?" he asked.

"It air beautiful," she said slowly.

"I will keep it always." He lifted the little brown hand to his lips. A vivid color splashed her face.

"I have something else to show you." She lifted her face in bright expectancy. "What do you think of this?" He put into her hand the picture of a woman from his world. She noted the beautiful profile, the white, naked throat, the dress unlike anything she had ever seen.

"It is my sweetheart," he said. We are to be married soon."

She stood a moment in the door way, and sped down the path. She had accepted the happiness he brought into her life without questioning it.

She threw herself on the grass and lay there trying to realize the bitterness of her awakening.

The day had been intensely hot. White clouds had crept in masses to the north—the landscapes lay in shadow—a flickering glow of lightning ran over the clouds—a hesitating drop of rain, and the mountains were shut from view by the wind urged, surging storm.

The girl lifted her head and looked out with indifferent eyes. The artist's mare stood under a near locust tree.

"Locusts air bad fer lightenin' I wish hit would strike her 'n I hate her." The words came slowly.

Suddenly she sprang to her feet. "Kope," she called. She laid her hand on the mare's neck. "The lightning mout strike ye," she entreated, "Kope!"

A terrible forked blue flash rent the skies. Simultaneously the thunder crashed. The rain gradually subsided. How green the woody slope! And suddenly the rain bow was set in the clouds. How far it reached! How splendidly it illuminated the mountains' somber crests! And the winds from remote distances blew unmindful.

The childish figure on the wet, clinging grass, with upturned face that he had once likened to an anemone, a flower-like face with parted lips and wide sweet eyes, the artist sees—sees and forgets not.

EDITOR'S AWFUL PLIGHT.

F. M. Higgins, editor Seneca, (Ills.) News, was afflicted for years with piles that no doctor or remedy helped until he tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve. He writes two boxes wholly cured him. It's the surest Pile cure on earth and the best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25 cents. Sold by C. E. Holton, druggist.

A powerful engine cannot be run with a weak boiler, and we can't keep up the strain of an active life with a weak stomach; neither can we stop the human machine to make repairs. If the stomach cannot digest enough food to keep the body strong, such a preparation as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure should be used. It digests what you eat and it simply can't help but do you good. Howard Gardner.

The claim of other cough medicines to be as good as Chamberlain's are effectually set at rest in the following testimonial of Mr. C. D. Glass, an employe of Bartlett & Dennis Co., Gardiner, Me. He says: "I had kept adding to a cold and cough in the winter of 1897, trying every cough medicine I heard of without permanent help, until one day I was in the store of Mr. Houlehan and he advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and offered to pay back my money if I was not cured. My lungs and bronchial tubes were very sore at this time, but I was completely cured by this remedy, and have since always turned to it when I got a cold, and soon find relief. I also recommend it to my friends and am glad to say it is the best of all cough medicines." For sale by C. E. Holton.

NO RIGHT TO UGLINESS

The woman who is lovely in face form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at C. E. Holton's drug store.

RHEUMATISM | CATARRH—DIS-
EASES CURED BY B. B. B.

It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air blood purifiers, have failed to do, B. B. B. always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure and so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3 Ba.

For sale by druggists and Howard Gardner, in Greensboro, at $1 per large bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. To prove our faith in B. B. B. we will send a trial bottle free to sufferers, so they may test the remedy at our expense. Address: Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

may be almost safely set down as wanting red in her blood.

If subject to dizziness, fainting, shortness of breath on slight exertion, no doubt remains.

To want red in the blood is to fail of the good of one's food.

Her food is not nourishing her. She needs a change.

The easiest change she can get, and one of the best, is Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

It gives her the upper hand in the contest—her food has the upper hand now—she is pale no more.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

Owing to the rapid growth of the "City of Flowers" I find it necessary to increase capacity for coming summer work. Will shortly add a new 60 horse power engine and 60 horse boiler, washing machine and mangle. These new machines added to present equipment will put the "Gate City" on an equal with any laundry in the south. Would call special attention to the new collar and cuff machine recently purchased which will give either gloss or domestic finish, by simply changing gear from left to right and vice versa. We give gloss finish unless otherwise notified. Give us a trial and be convinced that we can't be beat. Hail white wagons or 'phone 176. Respectfully,

A GOOD COUGH MEDICINE FOR CHILDREN.

"I have no hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says F. P. Moran, a well known and popular baker, of Petersburg, Va. "We have given it to our children when troubled with bad coughs, also whooping cough, and it has always given perfect satisfaction. It was recommended to me by a druggist as the best cough medicine for children as it contained no opium or other harmful drug." Sold by C. E. Holton.

THE EMERSON PIANO

Stand and don't you forget it. The State Normal and Industrial College, Greensboro, N. C., bought the same piano in 1896, 1897 and 1900. Dr. McIver, who looks carefully after the interest of the college, gave all the dealers and branch piano houses a chance to compete and a number competed by pricing their pianos, while others put their pianos by the side of the old and tried EMERSON, which came off victorious the third time. The Emerson piano will stand by and always gives that satisfaction that pleases the owner. Call and see them.

A KNOT IN THE SKEIN

By Mrs. Chas. C. Marble.

THEY made a pretty picture, did grandmother and little Dot. Grandmother sat in her low rocking-chair, with her glasses pushed back above her forehead, and before her stood Dot holding outstretched a brilliant skein of wool upon her chubby little hands.

"Hurry up, grandma," said Dot, with a slight frown, "you're so slow." Grandma took no heed, apparently, but went on with the utmost precision. Slowly the yarn reeled over the chubby thumbs, slowly went on the winding about grandma's ball.

Dot stood first upon one foot, then the other, like a barn-yard fowl, and gave at intervals a tremendous sigh as evidence of her weariness.

"You're 'zasperatin'," she at last broke out; "really and truly, grandma, you're old 'zasperatin' hisself."

"What?" cried the startled old lady, who had been intent upon her winding or perhaps lost in a reverie of other days; "what is that you are saying, Dot?"

"I said you was a 'zasperatin' old poke," replied Dot, firmly. "I is most tired to death, and there you go on windin' jes' as if you was asleep."

"Well, I never," gasped the old lady. I pretended to be intent upon the work before me, yet could scarce refrain from laughing aloud.

"Tired, eh?" queried grandma, with a twinkle in her eye; "well, we will soon be through, and you can lie down and rest."

"No, I'm going out to jump rope," incautiously said Dot, "with Willie and Rose. They're jumping now, don't you hear 'em, grandma?"

"Ah, you are going to rest your weary limbs by jumping rope," replied grandma. "Well, so that you won't be entirely used up, suppose you sit on this chair," calling one beside Dot.

Dot sulkily complied, but as she did so dropped her hands in feigned weariness.

"See," cried grandma, "you are letting strands of the wool slip over your fingers. Hold up your hands, dear, and we will soon be through," and on went the old lady, placidly and slowly winding as before.

Dot for a space looked the picture of youthful resignation, but soon her impatience returned.

"Hurry up," she cried, vehemently. "You're enough to 'zasperate the patience of Job," and again I saw her slyly drop a loop or two from her fingers, as she moved restlessly upon the chair.

Grandma looked at her reprovingly, but hastened somewhat her movements. There was a pause presently in the winding. The old lady brought her spectacles down from her forehead, and peered at the skein of wool.

"There's a snarl," she said, "dear, dear, how did that come?"

"It's an awful hard knot," cheerfully said Miss Dot, after grandma had made several attempts to disentangle the snarl. "I guess you had better get it all right, grandma, and we'll wind the ball 'nother time."

"Oh, no, Dot, we'll get it all right now," replied grandma, with a jerk. Snap went the strand. Several minutes were consumed in straightening the skein, and grandma carefully knotted the broken threads together before resuming her winding.

The sounds of laughter and jumping outside the window came borne in upon the stillness of the room. Another petulant movement from Dot.

"I is so nervous, I can't hold still," she next exclaimed, impatiently tugging at the wool.

"Dear, dear, another knot," cried grandma, peering over her spectacles at Dot. "Why, at this rate, we will never get through."

But at last it was done, and away scampered Dot, every vestige of ill-humor banished from her pretty face. Grandma's glance met mine.

"The wool is for her own stockings," quietly said she, as if in answer to something she read in my eyes, "and I intend these knots shall teach her a lesson which mere words would fail to accomplish. Youthful experience, if rightly impressed, may serve to guard the future from sterner ones."

The old lady's favorite expression, "I know," played about her firmly closed lips, but she gave no utterance to them as with ball in hand she sat gazing upon the pictures of the past—pictures whose lights and shadows were reflected in her own dim eyes, in the flitting smile upon brow or lip.

Well, if grandma had been slow in winding the ball, it was more than she was in lessening it again. How fast her needles flew! Early in the morning, late at night, went on the knitting. Dot's eyes watched the progress of the stockings, and her admiration was unbounded over their hue.

"Red stockings, and a red hood, and red mitties! My, it pears Sunday won't ever come!"

"Crimson," corrected grandma; "not red." But it mattered little to Dot what the color was named when she drew the bright stockings upon her chubby legs and over them again a pair of shining new shoes.

"You will be proud of these stockings," said grandma, on Saturday night, as she rounded the toe with a bit of white wool, "because you helped me to wind the wool, you know, Dot."

"Yes," assented the little one, with a proud air, "wasn't I dood, grandma?" "And you so tired, too," went on grandma, ignoring her question.

"And so nervous," responded Dot. "Yes, and you called me a 'zasperatin' old poke," gravely answered grandma, "and snapped the thread on purpose to make me give over the winding."

Dot opened wide her eyes. "How did you know that?" she queried. "Now don't say a 'little bird' told you, grandma, 'cause I see tired to death hearin' that story."

"Never mind how I knew, Dot. The fact remains that there were knots in my fair ball of wool, and knots, you know, can never be straightened out, never!"

Dot looked at her grandma reflectively. "Didn't you ever make knots in your grandma's wool?" she asked, soberly.

"None but what I had to pay for," replied the old lady, suppressing a smile. "Knots are troublesome things, Dot, as you may find out before you are many days older."

Off to Sunday school hied Dot the next morning, resplendent in new attire. Grandma smiled grimly when she returned with a perceptible limp in her gait.

"Somefin' is hurtin' my heel," she informed us at dinner, reluctantly. "Your new shoes, I suppose," suggested her mother, "you had best take them off and put on your old ones."

But Dot demurred, and like her elders, sometimes, for vanity's sake, endured the torture the remainder of the day.

Grandma said never a word. Bed-time came, and with a sigh of relief Dot drew off her shoes.

"It's in my stockie," said she, after due examination; "there's two dreat big knots in the heel."

"Knots?" echoed grandma. There was no stupidity about our bright Dot, and she understood all the meaning conveyed in grandma's tone and look at once.

"Knots of impatience, Dot," I could not refrain from saying, "for which you have suffered all day long."

"And undutifulness," added grandma, "and covert untruthfulness." Dot turned the color of her stockings.

"You might have smoooved 'em out," she said, carefully examining her blistered heel.

"Out of the wool, perhaps," answered grandma, earnestly, "but not so easily the knots when formed in the skein of character, Dot."

Several days after grandma beckoned me to approach an open door. Within could be heard the voices of Dot, Willie and Rose. An altercation was evidently in progress concerning the destruction of a doll. In a rocking-chair sat Dot with a pair of grandma's spectacles upon her nose. Gravely she peered over them at the flushed face of Willie.

"Who broke dolly's head?" she questioned.

"Rose!" answered he, promptly. "Dear, dear," exclaimed Dot, bending forward, "such a snarl as you are dettin' the skein into, Willie!"

"What skein?" asked he, sulkily. "Did you or didn't you break dolly's head?" she continued, without answering his question.

"No, I didn't!" this very emphatically.

"Nother knot in the skein," said Dot, imitating grandma's tone and manner to perfection, "nother dreat big knot, my child, 'cause—'cause I saw you do it."

An impressive silence, broken only by Willie's sniffling.

"Keep on tellin' stories, Willie," gravely went on the little monitor, "and you'll det all tangled up like—like a skein of wool when you let your hands drop. Then comes knots, and knots can never be smoooved out, never. They'll get knitted into your hide, my child, and—div' you a heap of torment. I know!" and pushing the spectacles back upon her head, Dot sank into a gentle reverie, so much like her grandma's that the smile died from our lips, and the dear old lady, as we tip-toed back to our room, said in trembling tones: "Heaven bless the child!"—N. Y. Observer.

Senator Wanted to Visit the Cook.

Representative Jones, of Virginia, tells this story on his father: "Directly after the war Jones senior was sent to the state senate. An old slave who had belonged to him was also elected to the senate. The two drew adjoining seats. Senator Jones was very courteous, and in addressing his former slave always called him senator. The old negro stood it for some time and finally said: 'Massa William, I don't like dis senator business. Kain't I come down to yo' house and visit that cook of yours? I suhtinly would like permission to visit yo' kitchen.' The request was granted, and while Senator Jones was in his library the other senator was down in the kitchen visiting the cook."—Troy Times.

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman Knows Woman.

ZURICH, KAN., Jan. 31. I used Wine of Cardui for nervousness and weakness in the womb. After taking one bottle I was well again. I am a midwife and always recommend Wine of Cardui to my lady friends during pregnancy and after birth as a tonic. Every lady who takes it finds that it does even more than is claimed for it.

MRS. V. M. BOISVERT.

Wine of Cardui

Nobody knows woman like woman. Men go to medical colleges, study books and listen to lectures. They learn indirectly of the diseases of women, but they are men and can never fully understand the ailments, the sufferings, the agonies of mothers, wives and sisters. A woman knows. Mrs. Boisvert knows. She has passed through the trials and tribulations of her sex. She has been near by when her sisters suffered. She has seen them relieved and cured with Wine of Cardui. Is it any wonder she recommends it? Is it any wonder that thousands of other women recommend it? They know. They have actual experience to prompt them. They spread the tidings from mouth to mouth, telling how Wine of Cardui helps young girls, helps the weak of all ages, helps and cures all womanly ills.

EVENING SLEEVES.

There is at Present a Choice Between Very Short and Elbow Lengths.

There is a great variety in the sleeves demanded for evening gowns. The usual form is the short, close shoulder sleeve, which is, however, not always becoming. This little sleeve may quite properly be puffed a trifle, or it may be turned into a very short, full ruffle. The elbow sleeve belongs more to dinner gowns than to gowns intended for the ballroom. A pretty effect is gained by using a fichu over the arms and about the decolletage. The corsage should in this case be attached by straps of ribbon, lace or jewels over the shoulders, and the fichu is draped about the arms and the top of the corsage, fastening in a knot on one side, says a fashion authority.

A pretty finish to a silk skirt may be made by a shaped ruffle, finished by a row of heavy cords. On a gown of purple panne there are 12 of these in white satin on a flounce of purple satin. The corsage of white lace has a little jacket of the panne, with under-vest that turns into a sash of the purple satin, with white cords on the ends. There is an air of simplicity to this gown that is rather quaint.

The popular high-necked gown that shall be elaborate, while not a full evening gown, is nicely effected in some thin fabric, like mousseline de soie and perforated velvet. A tunic of perforated rose-colored velvet over skirts of pink mousseline de soie has for a top a blouse of the thin stuff, with deep shoulder collar of the perforated velvet. The yoke and elbow sleeves are of lace over mousseline de soie. The deep collar is laced across in front with narrow black velvet ribbon, and on the bottom of the tunic some touches of black velvet add character.

The straight busk effect of the Pompadour bodice is, of course, fashionable now, and there are ways of effecting it, without resorting to the severe pompadour bodice. A plain corsage, covered with lace, may have the lace pattern carried down to the skirt in a point that produces much the same effect as the long-busked corsage. This is pretty, for the blouse may be slightly full and therefore far more graceful in effect than the stiff lines of the original model. The French dressmakers copy freely from old plates, but rarely fail to improve on them.

For separate stocks the directoire, or some high shape—it is called by several names—is the best choice. To be worn with a flannel or velvet shirt waist a directoire collar in white satin, embroidered in fine black satin scarf, is the first choice. Another model has the flaring military choker, opening over a close second choker of some soft material, and completed by a soft, loosely knotted scarf. Chokers are really less elaborate than they were a season ago.

To Cook Cabbage.

A nice way of cooking a cabbage is to quarter it, removing the outer leaves and the heart, and put into plenty of boiling salted water. Boil constantly until tender, take into a colander to drain, and make a cream sauce of one tablespoonful of flour and a little salt in a cup of milk. Mix the flour with a little cold milk, then stir in the rest of the milk and let boil till it thickens, then put in the cabbage and let it come to a boil again. Allow a heaped tablespoonful of salt to each half gallon of water, and skim the cabbage several times. If you want your cabbage "extra nice," add a bit of nice sweet butter to your sauce. From 20 to 40 minutes should cook the cabbage, depending upon size.—Detroit Free Press.

Exquisite Devil's Food Cookies.

One cupful of sugar, three-fourths cupful of butter (creamed together), one cupful of milk, three eggs (reserving whites of two), two and one-half cupfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Second Mixture.—One-half cake of chocolate (melted), one cupful of sugar, one egg, one-half cupful milk, boil until thick, then pour into the first part and beat vigorously, add one cupful of raisins (seeded), one cupful of hickory nut meats and one cupful of dates, stoned and chopped medium fine; drop from a spoon onto well buttered tins and bake quickly; frost each cake with a boiled frosting, made with two cupfuls of sugar and the two egg whites, adding a little chocolate.—People's Home Journal.

The Long Coat's Reign Almost Over. It goes without saying that the dress skirt may be made after any form that is becoming, but remember this in any new thing from now on till the next season's styles are fairly established, that Fashion is a somewhat logical dame after all. She has kept skirts down in fullness at the top because her latest freak was Louis XV. coats, and Louis XV. coats do not look well over fullness. Now there will probably be no more long coats among the new things. And naturally the latest skirts are much trimmed below the waist, and admit of more tucks, plaits and so on in the same place.—Miss de Forest, in Ladies' Home Journal.

First Citizen—I know he has been accused of corruption, but a man should be pronounced innocent until he's proven guilty.

Second Citizen—Oh, nonsense! He's a politician.—Puck.
